

Interview: Linguistic Diversity and Digitalization

What happens with the collected data?

This interview is part of a scientific and non-commercial research project at the University of Vienna. The collected data will be used exclusively for scientific purposes.

Participation in the interview is voluntary and you can stop the survey at any time. Your answers cannot be traced back to you; participation is anonymous.

Data protection information

I take the protection of your personal data as part of this survey very seriously. Therefore, your data are only collected and processed on the basis of legal provisions (section 2f, para. 5 of the Austrian research organisation act, Forschungsorganisationsgesetz, FOG).

This survey is part of a master's thesis at the University of Vienna. The data can be consulted by the supervisor (of the academic thesis) for the purpose of performance assessment. In principle, it is permitted to store the collected data for an unlimited period of time according to article 89, para. 1 of the GDPR. Evaluations and statements mentioning your pseudonym are used (quotes) in the master's thesis, but not the directly collected data, and may be published in scientific publications.

You have the right to be informed by the person responsible for this study about the personal data collected, the right to rectification, erasure, restriction of processing of data and the right to object to processing as well as the right to data portability.

If you have any questions regarding this survey, please contact the person responsible for this study: Juliane BENSON (juliane.rabea.benson@univie.ac.at), student in the degree programme in Digital Humanities at the University of Vienna, Universitätsring 1, 1010 Wien.

For general legal questions regarding the GDPR/FOG and research conducted by students, please contact the Data Protection Officer of the University of Vienna, Daniel Stanonik (verarbeitungsverzeichnis@univie.ac.at). You also have the right to lodge a complaint with the Data Protection Authority (for example, via dsb@dsb.gv.at).